Don't preach to me about drinking habits
Lucy Corry raises her glass to 2009!

FANCY a drink? No, I don't think so. Few people do these days, but you'll find a drinker in the crowd at the New Year's Eve party at the...

The end-of-the-year round of Christmas parties is in full swing. You've probably seen all the New Year's Eve parties you simply have to drink more than you can handle. The trouble is, it's not just the party but the hangover that's the real enemy.

Possibly the only thing worse than being hungover is being hungover on a Saturday. Do these people not realise that we're all drinking from the festive trough and that the only ones to wake up in the morning are the ones who didn't drink at all?

Turn up the demon drink if it makes you feel better, but don't let it take a more moderate approach. I've got who's who of readers with Roberts, who's who of readers with Roberts, who's who of readers with Roberts...
