

T A P E Collective Shorts: Call Me by My Name - Officer Comments

Title	Synopsis	Recommended Rating	Officer Comments
What's in a Name?	In this documentary short, Brits explore the challenges they've encountered with their non-Western names.	12	No concerns with the applicant's recommended 12 rating.
But You're Not Black	A Chinese-Caribbean-Canadian woman tries to embrace her parents' Trinidadian identity and traces back her roots.	12	A short film regarding discussions regarding discriminatory behaviour, but in an educational and documentary format with no cause for concern.  The above is in keeping with a 12 certification.
Rice &amp; Bread	A monotonous night in a south London takeaway is 'enlightened' when a delivery driver is reminded of a contentious theory he learnt on YouTube.	12	No concerns with the applicant's recommended 12 rating.
5 Stars	Across three Uber journeys, a woman of colour explains who she is to people who have already made their mind up. A poignant exploration of cultural lines and the desire for connection.	12	Some comments within the film which can be viewed in a discriminatory manner, which is in accordance with film's purpose to provide the main character's experience.  The above could be considered in accordance with the BBFC guideline for a 12 certification.
Stranger Baby	Substituting sly metaphor for political rhetoric on immigration, Lin examines our world of ethical and racial complexities.	12	No concerns with the applicant's recommended 12 rating.
Once an Old Lady Sat On My Chest	A magical realism short about a young British Nigerian woman who is forced to deal with her identity crises when a mysterious old woman squats on chest.	12	An instance of moderate bad language used by the main character at 8:45 of the short.  The above is in keeping with a 12 certification.

Northern Great Mountain	Elle, 78 claims that she is completely Swedish and has grown a resentment for Sami people even though she speaks Sami and grew up in the Mountains in Lapland. Under pressure from her son, she reluctantly returns north for her sister's funeral.	12	No concerns with the applicant's recommended 12 rating.
--	---	-----------	---