

Children and Families Covid-19 Transition Plan 2021-22

Purpose

A single plan bringing together Children and Families Services activity with that of other council services and partners, where appropriate, to support key improvement priorities from the Children & Young People's Plan during the period of transition from the Covid-19 pandemic.

Our overall aim continues to be delivering outstanding services that improve the lives of children, young people and families and make Leeds a child-friendly city.

We will do this by creating the conditions to enable everyone to thrive and do the best job possible with children, young people and families

Progress will be monitored through a Recovery Board, and measured against Key Performance Indicators.

Securing the future and financial sustainability

Performance management and quality assurance

Learning development and supervision

Practice conditions

Improving the lives of children looked after and care leavers

Improving the lives of children who need help and protection

Improving the lives of children through learning improvement and learning inclusion

Improving the lives of children who need early help

Culture and leadership and an agreed practice model

Improving the lives of children, young people and families

We're child friendly Leeds

Our plan is underpinned by restorative, strength-based and family-led approaches which seek to address the impacts of poverty, and promote equality and diversity, and the voice and influence of children, young people, and their families.
