

Equality, Diversity, Cohesion and Integration (EDCI) screening

As a public authority we need to ensure that all our strategies, policies, service and functions, both current and proposed have given proper consideration to equality, diversity, cohesion and integration.

A screening process can help judge relevance and provides a record of both the process and decision. Screening should be a short, sharp exercise that determines relevance for all new and revised strategies, policies, services and functions.

Completed at the earliest opportunity it will help to determine:

- the relevance of proposals and decisions to equality, diversity, cohesion and integration.
- whether or not equality, diversity, cohesion and integration is being or has already been considered, and
- whether or not it is necessary to carry out an impact assessment.

The following questions will help you to identify how relevant your proposals are.

When considering these questions think about age, carers, disability, gender reassignment, race, religion or belief, sex, sexual orientation. Also those areas that impact on or relate to equality: tackling poverty and improving health and well-being.

- Are not already considering the impact on equality, diversity, cohesion and integration within your proposal please go to section 5.

4. Considering the impact on equality, diversity, cohesion and integration

If you can demonstrate you have considered how your proposals impact on equality, diversity, cohesion and integration you have carried out an impact assessment.

Please provide specific details for all three areas below (use the prompts for guidance).

- How have you considered equality, diversity, cohesion and integration? (think about the scope of the proposal, who is likely to be affected, equality related information, gaps in information and plans to address, consultation and engagement activities (taken place or planned) with those likely to be affected)

In preparation of the SHAP bid officers within the Adults and Health commissioning team have undertaken a needs analysis, identifying the targeted group of people who will benefit from this new service.

It has referenced health inequalities, complex needs, barriers to support and how we can address these issues through intensive support and use of specialist staff on site at the new services.

- Key findings (think about any potential positive and negative impact on different equality characteristics, potential to promote strong and positive relationships between groups, potential to bring groups/communities into increased contact with each other, perception that the proposal could benefit one group at the expense of another)

The new SHAP services will help those who are most vulnerable and rough sleeping, or at risk of homelessness. People with complex and multiple needs including mental health problems, substance misuse, acute physical health needs.

The aim of the service is to support people into recovery, by a trauma informed model of support.

- Actions (think about how you will promote positive impact and remove/ reduce negative impact)

The new SHAP services will be co-produced and managed with third sector organisations who are experienced in supporting this client group. We will also link up with specialist resources from LYPFT, health care providers and those specialising in managing addiction and substance misuse issues. Wrap around support will be provided to anyone who is planning to leave the SHAP services and move into their own independent accommodation.

5. If you are not already considering the impact on equality, diversity, cohesion and integration you will need to carry out an impact assessment.
