What is this report about?

Community Committees were set up in June 2014 to improve the way the council works locally. They form part of our commitment to involving our residents more closely with the priorities for their local area and decision-making on funding and services, contributing towards the Best Council Plan and the council's overall aim of creating safe, strong communities.

Over the last twelve months as a result of the continued and ongoing COVID-19 pandemic they have responded proactively to the key themes that have emerged in the city; listening to all our communities and allocating resources and funding where it has been most needed; helping to protect the most vulnerable, helping to keep people safe from harm, assisting people with financial hardship and helping tackle social isolation and inequality.

The Community Committees' Annual Report looks at the progress made over the last twelve months. It outlines the changes which have taken place during 2021 to 2022 and gives examples of some of the work the Community Committees have carried out within their communities to improve the lives of local people of all ages and backgrounds. The report also looks at Wellbeing and Youth Activities Funding (YAF) and the impact it makes, as well as the role the Community Committees undertake in bringing communities together.

In addition to this the report also provides direct links to the Community Committee Facebook pages and the social media activity that takes place through the Community Committee structures, which ensures we reach a large number of residents every month through local stories and conversations. During the pandemic our Community Committees have also continued to play an essential role in providing a responsive information service to all our diverse communities in the city, by being a key source of reliable and up to date information. The Coronavirus Help Facebook Groups were set up as a way of promoting services, supporting communities and cascading information in an attempt to tackle the pandemic. The pages were also there to generate discussion and debate but also facilitate conversations around being neighbourly during the national pandemic and assist in some of the volunteering efforts in the city.

As well as looking back over the last 12 months, the report looks forward and mentions the significant challenges but also opportunities that the Coronavirus pandemic has and will present committees with, including:

- The response from local communities in relation to the pandemic.

- The opportunity to take learning and good practice from the ways we have worked differently throughout the pandemic, to inform work going forward.
- The momentum brought about by the pandemic to ensure that the local leadership provided through our Elected Members and Community Committees continues to be at the heart of developing local and city-wide structures.

The report says that Community Committees will continue to play a key role in addressing some of these challenges in our local communities in Leeds and the programmes of work that they develop over the next year, will form a key part of the recovery work that is being undertaken in each of the 33 wards throughout the city. This, alongside delegated budget spend for each committee will help to address a further widening of the inequalities gap that has been identified by COVID-19 but also in addition to this, other factors such as the emerging cost-of-living crisis.

Including how it contributes to the city’s and council’s ambitions

The report covers the commitment to locality-based working, demonstrated once again over the course of the last 12 months in the broad range of projects that the Community Committees have funded, spending nearly £2 million in 2021/22, totalling nearly 500 separate grants that were provided to local grass route organisations, voluntary groups and charities.

It also references wherever possible, Leeds City Council’s Best City Ambition and the 3 key strategic pillars; Inclusive Growth, Health & Wellbeing and Zero Carbon, by linking projects funded through the committees to the strategies: Leeds Best City Ambition.pdf

It is clear that strong, effective partnerships have been developed during the COVID-19 pandemic as a result of some of the work that has taken place and this is referenced throughout the report. These partnerships have flourished and in many cases are continuing to progress, with some now offering wider support to meet local needs, contributing towards the Best Council Plan and the council’s overall aim of creating safe, strong communities.
